

Freelance PR/Marketing Officer

From its base near Newcastle upon Tyne, Monster Productions has rapidly established itself as one of the country's leading producers of musical theatre for the very young. Monster Productions is a revenue-funded client of Arts Council England. Our reputation is excellent and the great feedback we receive about our work is well documented.

We now seek a

PR/Marketing Officer

This is a new post that requires an outward looking person who, working in alliance with current staff can identify publicity opportunities and assist in continuing our strong future development.

Fee: £2,000 + legitimate expenses

Hours: as required and by negotiation with the Chief Executive

Contract: from December 15th 2008 – May 30th 2009

There is one specific and immediate task.

To support the marketing and PR around our forthcoming show "The Garden of Dreams." Whilst specific marketing will be provided by venues taking the show, we wish to make the most of opportunities to profile the show and the company in the national media alongside this. We will also require you to target directors, reviewers and funders, ensuring that they attend performances of the show. A brief description of the show can be found on our website: -

"The Garden of Dreams" marks a new departure for Monster Productions in that the story has been constructed from the dreams of children and the show will feature a cast of Asian dancers and musicians. The show is a co-production with Live Theatre, Newcastle. You will be responsible to Ieuan Einion, Chief Executive of Monster Productions.

You should be able to provide the names of two referees as well as a detailed CV. Depending on results, this may be a post that is continued and expanded.

For an application form, email info@monsterproductions.co.uk or for an informal chat call Ieuan on 0033 296 45 29 28.
